chips were taken off. These taken off chips were returned to the bar without redemption.

It will not be necessary to notice the instructions in detail. The court in substance instructed the jury that an ordinary pack of playing cards and poker chips is a gambling device within the meaning of section 1547, supra, provided such cards and chips are used for the purpose of playing any game of shanes for money or property. Whether this construction of the law is correct is the controlling question in the case. The qualification contained in the provision cannot have the effect of bringing the cards and chips mentioned within the meaning of said section, for while the device therein prohibited must be adapted, devised and designed for playing a game of chance for money or property, or simply to play at a game pixed by means of such device for amusement only. So the section reads and so it was beid to mean in the State vs. Fulton, 19 Mo., 490. This section of the statute is leveled at certain gambling devices and section 1848 at anyone who gambles at or by means of gambling devices. The prohibitions of section 1847 at anyone who gambles at or by means of gambling devices. The prohibitions of section 1847 do not apply to GAMES, but to devices and the chips, nickels, pennies or whatnot for which they play is an ordinary games of cards are adjuncts, conveniences and incentives to games of chances, but neither one of them or all combined is a device to playing sames of chance, the thirp with which the game is played for the purpose of playing games of chance, the thirp with which the game is played is poker, enters, whist, even up or what the name of the game may be, or whether the state played for is adoliar, a dime, a nickel or an ivory chip representing

But we have failed to find a case prosecuted under the section 1,47, which has been fon Statute Book in terms the same as in the present revision since 1825, in which it has been held that such card were a gambling device within the meaning of the section and it never having been so expressly ruled, we do not feel constrained in this case in which we are called upon to pass upon this question directly to follow conclusions that might be drawn from dicta in some of those cases in which this section was only indirectly considered, unless independent examination of a few familiar principles of interpretatin ought to determine the question. Certainly gambling devices are specifically named in the section under consideration. Cards are not of this number. Following those specifically named in the section was only indirectly named are the general words, "or any kind of gambling tables or gambling device adopted, etc." Under the rule that when general words follow particular ones they must be construed as applicable to things of the same general designation, unless ejusdemseneris devices specifically named in the action. THE FRENCH STEAMER COLLIDES WITH THE PILOT BOAT CHARLOTTE WEBB.

Brutal Conduct of the French Offic Pilot Boat Captain and His Boat Keeper Drowned-Ruscus of the Survivors-Sub-stantial Sympathy—The Grand Trunk

EW YORK, May 20. The fog which made navigation difficult and dangerous for three days and which delayed many ves-sels entering or passing out of the port ord which include ing the loss of two lives. Saddest of all the accidents is that which befell the pilot boat Charlotte Webb, No. 5, which now lies at the ttom of the ocean. The Webb showed her anofiness and the bravery of her pilots and crew several weeks ago in the fearful hurricane off Hatteras which proved fatal to the steamship Conserva. It was she which ill-fated craft's life boats. She left her anwith four pilots, a steward and a crew of five men. The pilots had invited Mr. Green of Brooklyn, a friend of Capt. Malcolm, to join them on their cruise. Even at that time the fog was very dense, but the pilots could get the channel with their eyes and so the mist did not deter them from going straight for the ocean in search of inward-bound steamships. As the Webb put to sea she passed the foggether about the bar and near Quarantine waiting for the fog to rise. The pilot boat rather drifted than sailed, for much motion was dangerous for anything affoat in such a fog. By nightfall the Charlotte Webb was ng about near the Sandy Hook lightship, but as there were no indications that any vessel would get through the fog, Capt. Malcolm decided that they would sail to the eastward and get out of the bank. Sail wes forward with a will. At 8:30 o'clock the pilots had their supper and were feeling rather com-were to blame."

The Normandie put back and cast anchor near the Hook, and at daybreak sighting the Etruria, put the ili-treated men aboard of her and sontinued her voyage. There, however, their fearful experience of the night samed general sympathy. They were very kindly treated, dry clothing being generously provided, and the passengers subscribing $85 to a fund for the Webb's seamen. This amount was divided pro rata among the five seamen. They were brought to this city, whence they went to their homes.

James Helnes was found at 126 Vanderbitt avenue, Brooklyn, least night, and said that he and his fellows on the pilot boat had heard the steamer's whistles for nearly half an hour, and sent up two rockets and two berches.

"It was black as night," said he, "and we did not have a breath of air. We feared from the loud whistling that a big boat was too near for safety. We were on the point of sending up another rocket when the hage bow of the Frenchman loomed up on our bow and in an instant she cut through us like a knife going through a cheese. I was with Albert Maleolm and we sank together. I came up, but Al did not. I swam about until the Normandie's boat picked me up."

The Pilots declare that the fault of the collision was entirely with the officers of the Normandie. The steamship, they assert, was going at full speed in order to make up for the time she lost the afternoon of Saturday, when she fouled with Buoy No. 6, and got its mooring chains entangled in her propeller. They say that they did everything in their bower to warn off vessels, and that the steamer's people must lave heard the foghorn, even if they had not seen the fisch lights. A suit will be begun by the surviving pilots against the French company for damages.

NEW YORK, May 20,-It was long after noon to-day when the dense fog that overspread the lower bay since Friday night was sufficiently cleared away to enable the immense fleet of ocean steamers anchored there to come up to the city. Up to this afternoon no additional disasters were reported this side of Sandy Hook. The delayed steamers landed 5,562 emigrants at Castle Garden, the largest number in one day for many, years. The Arizona, from Liverpool, reports nearly being run into by the steamer Normandie on Sunday morning, a few miles below Sandy Hook. The passengers on board both vessels were greatly scared.

young man of Rushville, a small fown about five miles east of Atchison, was drowned in Togan Lake, opposite here, yesterday morning. He was drunk, and had come there, as he said, for trouble. He was drowned from a boat which he had taken and paddled alone to the middle of the stream. He had a jug of whisky and a revolver, and while drinking from the one and flourishing the other, he sumbled into the water, friends on the shore tried to reach him with poles, but he could not seize them, and in a moment he was drowned. The body was recovered.

Brutal Crime Near New Milford, Conr Mrs. Charles Nearing Decoyed to a Lone-ly Road by Her Brother-in-Law—The Latter Assaults Her—The Citizens Almost Succeed in Lynching the Brute.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

NEW MILPORD, Conn., May 20.—One of the most brutal crimes ever committed in this State was enacted in the outskirts of the town here early Saturday evening. Mrs. Chas. Nearling, the wife of a wealthy resident of Lanesville, spent Saturday afternoon in shop-ping, and after finishing her shopping she went to the railroad station at about 4:30 to take the 5 o'clock train for Lanesville. While she was waiting her brother-in-law, who is about 22 years old and married, droved up to the station and jumpthat he was just about to drive to Lanesville and asked her to drive with him. When he was outside the village he turned his horse into a road leading through a mountain and away from Lanesville. Upon inquiring the ase of his taking this road the sister-in-law was informed that he had a message to leave with a farmer living about five miles further along. The road is a lonely one but one house on its entire length. This is occupied by the above-mentioned farmer for whom Nearing said he had a message. When, however, about a mile further along, Mrs. Nearing said that her brother-in-law began to make improper advances, and seizing an opportunity she sprang from the carriage. But young Nearing was not to be foiled. Immediately he sprang after her, letting the

The keys to Nearing's cell were taken from the pocket of one of the officers and the prisoner, who was now loudly crying for mercy, was roughly selzed and bound also hand and foot. A rope was loosely slipped around Nearing's neck, while the mob, carrying him with them, hurried toward a tree near by. By this time the entire population of the town had been aroused by the noise of the souffle in the jail, toward which they began to hurry. The lynchers, however, were set in their determination to string up the young man, and, seeing the however, were set in their determination to string up the young man, and, seeing the crowd, began to tighten the rope around his neck. The foremost men in the crowd now whipped out their revolvers shd began wildly firing toward the lynchers. At the commencement of the firing the lynchers fled, and all of them made their escape although it is believed some of them were wounded. Nearing had been left lying at the foot of the tree. He was found in an unconscious state. The noces was quickly detached from the young man's neck and he was hurriedly carried into the jail where he was soon restored to consciousness by several physicians. In case of further trouble an extra force was left to guard the prisoner during the rest of the night. rest of the night.
Yesterday all was quiet in the vicinity of the jail, but further trouble was anticipated last night as the feeling against Nearing was pretty strong in Lanesville. The jail was double guarded.

AMERICA AND AUSTRALIA

THE SOUTHERN CONTINENT AND ITS TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

mercial Traveler Observed the Antipodes—American Farm Machin-ery, Printing Presses and Wagons Almost Exclusively Used—Hickory and Its Ad-turned from a trip to Australia," said New Haven, Conn. York and New Haven

Australia is a long way off, but few who have not been called upon to investigate the question are aware how large the American trade with that island is. I knew before I went out that we sold a great many vehicles, but had no idea of the close commercial connection between the United States and Australia. I was at Sydney and stayed more than a month at Mil-AMERICAN GOODS IN AUSTRALIA.

"I wish that some of those who are saying that the high tariff is killing American industries could spend one day at either place and notice the brands and trade-marks to be seen The extent to which American goods are used is most astonishing, especially in 'view of the fact that the price is generally from 20 to 50 per cent higher thanfor English goods of the same class. Nearly of the reapers, mowers, and self-binder sold to the larger farmers are of American goods admit that they do so because of their lower cost, not because of their superiority or even equality. Three-fourths of the Australian papers are printed on American presses, although the first cost of these is much greater than that of the English article. In fact nearly all kinds of labor-saving ma chinery come from America, and our trade is increasing every year. YANKEE BUGGIES IN THE ANTIPODES. "In my own particular line I foun that the United States easily led the world. A few old lumbering coacies of English manufacture could be seen, and the common carts and cheap wagons used in the cities also come from that country, at least the wheels and axies do, the wagon bodies being made in Australia. But all the light driving buggles, the lighter carriages, the farm wagons and all vehicles used in the numerous centrations remote from blacksmith shops are made in this country and shipped at great expense to Melbourne. Australia is a land of horses and horsemen, and no one with any pretensions to style or fashion will be without an American pianobox buggy. On every street in Melbourne and Sydney they can be seen, and scarcely anything else is met with on the suburban roads where horses are speeded. The native Australian woods are not at all suited to manufacture of any kind. Their trees, notably the eucalyptus, are among the United States easily led the

The native Australian woods are not at all suited to manufacture of any kind. Their trees, notably the eucalyptus, are among the trees, notably the eucalyptus, are among the largest in the world, but the wood is either so soft as to be useless, or so hard as to be practically unworkable.

ADVANTAGES OF HICKORY.

"This throws the country upon foreign nations for its supply of vehicles and the character of our American hickory places light buggles and wagons made of it far shead of any in the world. In countries where there are plenty of wagonmakers and any damages can be repaired at once this advantage does not counterbalance the cheaper prices at which the English can put their goods on the market, but in Australia farm and cattlestation vehicles must be both atrong and light, and therefore the United States has the field practically to itself. When once a vehicle breaks down on the bad country roads, it is a task of no little difficulty to take it to a blacksmith, probably twenty miles off, and no wizard at his trade. A cheap wagon is therefore not to be thought of, and the consequence is that the two and a half millions of Australians own proportionately more expensive vehicles than any other nation in the world. I found this out to my cost. I had made a shipment of cheap spring wagons, but had to sell them for scarcely more than I could obtain at them for scarcely more than I could obtain at home, while the best wagons easily brought pretty much what we chose to ask for them. There is no market in Australia for cheap ve-hicles, but a splendid one for those of high grade. THE BUCKBOARD.

THE BUCKBOARD,
an almost exclusively American article, has been recently introduced, and is meeting with high favor. It is just what is suited to the muddy roads that prevail everywhere outside of the cities during the rainy season, and which are cut up with the most terrible holes and rus by the bullock carts by which freighting is done.
There is a great demand for buckboards at present, and they bring fabulous prices. To suit the trade they should be made with two seats and slightly longer than in use in this country. The Australians have the kindest feelings imaginable to this country, and have far closer sympathy with the United States than with England. An American is always most cordially received and made to feel at home at once."

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch. NEW YORK, May 20 .- Mme. Eleanor Fletcher ishop passed an hour beside the dead body of her son yesterday, and went over the fun-eral arrangements with the undertaker, expressing herself as perfectly satisfied. The casket provided by Mr. Hawks is of cedar cov ered with black cloth and velvet and rich drapery inside and out. Mme. Sishop and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Bishop, will be accompanied at the funeral by Mrs. Lydia P. Chase, Miss Ida Orme, Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mrs. W. McIntyre and Mrs. Phillips. The services at Grace Church will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the following gentlemen will probably act as pall bearers: George Francis Train, Oliver Howard Blood, Harrison Millard, Nat Childs, W. J. Ritchie, A. F. Thomas, T. R. Atchison and Mr. Mathieson. Capt. Brogan will have a sufficient force of police at the church to prevent Broadway being blockaded, as there will no doubt be a large crowd of people in that neighborhood during the presence of the body in Grace Church.

A Murderer Confesses.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch. PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20.-The death of Mind-Reader Bishop recalls how his realistic pantomime of a murder given at an exhibition in this city several years ago so affected a man gave himself up to the authorities and con leased the crime. The murderer's name, as he was known here, was Allan McIntyre, and he had murdered Banker Wm. Baker of Glasgow in his private office and escaped with a large sum of money. The night Bishop exhibited here McIntyre responded to the unind reader's call for volunteers, remarking as he did so to Wm. C. McDonaid, who sat in the next seat, that he had no faith in Bishop's boasted powers. McIntyre went on the stage and Bishop began to act a nurder scene. He steaithly approached a chair and went through the motions of wrestling with an imaginary occupant, drawing a knife across his throat and plunging it into his chest. Then, in pantomime, he opened the door of a safe and transferred the contents to his pockets. Looking backward at an imaginary figure on the floor, he hurriedly moved away. Returning he asked McIntyre if he had not read his thoughts our rectly." Population of the safe was the left." No," replied the man, but it was noted." No," replied the man, but it was not left."

Intyre if he had not read his thoughts correctly.

"No," replied the man, but it was noticed that its face was ghastly in its pallor. He left the hall looking over his shoulder as if afraid of being followed. The same night he was seen intoxicated and while in his cups mumbled about something having been discovered, The next day he left Providence, remarking at the depot that he was going to New York. It was three months before he was heard of again and the intelligance was startling to those who remembered the Bishop incident. Word came from Glasgow that he had surrendered himself to the police as the murderer of Banker Baker seventeen years before and he said the vision of his crime recalled by the mind reader's wonderful performance was so realistic as to utterly upset him, and from that moment he imagined himself pursued by some mysterious influence from which there was no escape except in surrender and confession. MoIntyre's sanity was questioned by the Glasgow police, but he was adjudged perfectly sane and was sentenced to be hauged. While awaiting the day of his execution he died in his cell of apoplexy. His right name was Thomas Murray.

The arrangements for the entertainment have been most thorough and have already made success an assured fact. The hall will be beautifully decorated with many flags and flowers and brilliantly illuminated. The tables will each have a different attraction, of equal pleasure and merit, and will be in charge of efficient and accomplished ladies. There are a number of novel surprises also prepared for both evenings and a variety of other pleasant modes of entertainment. An excellent band has been engaged to piay during the hours and every arrangement that will add charm to the affair will be complete. The festival will be under the charge of the ladies in the parish of St. Kevin, but the great popularity of the rector. Rev. Father Edward J. Mr. Housemann responded felicitously and gave assurances that the improvement of the beautiful suburban park would continue.

He Had Served Two Years.

The Supreme Court to-day reversed the decision of the Criminal Court in the case of Alex Taylor, charged with assault with intent to kill. Taylor, who is a negro, was convicted of stabbing with murderous intent another negro named Dick whom he found in the company of his (Taylor's) wife. He was sent to the Penitantiary December 8, 1887, for three years and hence has nearly served out his term. The State will not push the case further and Taylor will likely be released from prison.

just returned from its two years' cruise for examination for promotion is looked upon by naval officers as a result of that condition of affairs now affecting the whole personnel of the service. Although the reduction in the different grades of the navy has been accomplished in all but the pay corps, the promotion is still very slow and the prospects held out to an ensign or to a lieutenant just entering this grade are not very brilliant. The Secretary of the Navy perceives what its needed in this direction, for he is reported as saying that the personnel of the navy requires the most careful organization and that means should be adopted to infuse new life into it. As regards promotion, the service is at a standstill. Many officers who are ensigns should be lieutenants, lieutenants should be lieutenant-commanders, the latter should be commanders, and commanders captains.

"A Captain," said the Secretary of the Navy, "should be able to reach the grade of Rear Admiral by the time he attains the age of Egyears, so that the Government could obtain some service from him in that grade. Under present circumstances it often happens that an officer goes upon the retired list as soon as he is promoted to the grade of Rear Admiral, having attained the age of 62 years. No officer should be young men in robust health, active and energetic, to enable them to perform the varied duties of their profession, and should not be allowed to remain too long without promotion.

"The men who commanded our ships and years, and the brilliant results of our naval operations during that war are a fair argument is favor of young men for such positions. I will not pretend to say just how such a desired end can be at this direction is more apparent every year.

"A law providing that commissioned officers of the navy, with good records be allowed to retire from active duty after thirty years service with premotion to the next higher grade, would afford a great relief and help bring about a more rapid promotion, so that in the course of a few years we might expect to see a more hopeful feeling among the younger officers. The older ones have the goal of their ambition in sight, and may hope ultimately to reach it, but to the younger ones at the present time the prospect is not cheering. Some of the more aspiring are seeking in private employment the advancement they fall to receive in the navy." Mr. and Mrs. William C. army next week by the retirement of Adjt.Gen. Drum, on account of age, is waxing hot and forms the main topic of officers' gossip at present. It is generally conceded that the chances for the Adjutant-Generalship lie between Cois. Keiton and Whipple. The former is now on duty here as First Assistant Adjutant-General and the latter is at fovernor's Island. Although Col. Keiton is the younger man, he outranks Col. Whipple and is at present at the head of the list of Assistant Adjutant-General. But there is a precedent in a somewhat similar case, which led to the selection of Gen.
Baird as the head of the Inspectors' Corps over Gen. Jones, who outranked him, although he was younger. On the other hand, there is the case of Gen. Casey and Gen.
Parke, in the contest for the position of Chief of Engineers. Casey was the younger man but outranked Parke, owing to the change he made from the Topographical Engineers to the Engineer Corps. Casey received the appointment. The retirement of Gen. Drum will ause the promotion of Lieut.-Col. Ruggles to be Colonel, and Maj. H. C. Corbin to be Lieutenant-Colonel, leaving a vacancy in the list of Assistant Adjutants-General, with the rank of Major, for which there is a bitter strife among a large number of Captains.

While engaged in a game of cards with the boy the witness states that he observed him cheating by secretly abstracting cards from the deck.

Dr. Simon was subjected to a very severe cross-examination at the hands of Attorney McBride, but with the exception of a few contradictions he stuck to his story and insisted that the experiment which he had made at the time of one of the so-called fits had convinced him that the case was a fraud.

When asked to state his probable motive for such a course on the part of the boy, the witness said that he attributed it to a desire for sympathy from the visitors and the public.

The leather is of a heavy quality, and after the adjournment of court a dozen of the strongest men in the court-room were given fragments of the cushen and invited to try their strenth, but without exception they falled to make the slightest limpression on the material. This was a 'stumper' for Dr. Bauduy and Attorneys Bass and McDonald, and they declined to talk on the matter.

Judge Normile informed the attorneys shortly before adjournment that if the evidence was in by evening, a night session would be held to finish the case and hand it to the jury.

Bey.

The sensational Malers case has not yet concluded. The defense resumed the taking of testimony upon the opening of court at 10 a.

m. to-day, with Dr. John Simon again on the stand. By this witness the defense has made a strong effort to reflect on the character of the prosecuting witness, Willie Malers, aiming to prove the boy capable of carrying out the well-feigned fits which they allege have so characterized his assumed illness.

Dr. Simon testified that when he called at the residence of Mrs. Malers in January last he was in company with another medical student and on one occasion the three engaged the boy in conversation for several hours. The witness then stated that on the occasion mentioned Willie Msiers used cigarettes and foul language in the presence of his mother and seemed the first cound in the language in the presence of his mother and seemed the first cound and round in d.c., which is, insert hook, draw thread through, then through two okitches on hook; increase when it is necessary to keep the work flat, until you have done about 6 rounds, when you should have 48 stitches in the round. Offirm Testimony.

Dr. Frank R. Fry professor of mental and nervous diseases in the St. Louis Medical College and a graduate of the Missouri Medical College, was then placed on the stand. He testified that he visited the boy, Willie Maiors, in company with and at the request of Dr. Hauduy and saw one of the fits. He corroborated the testimony of Dr. Bauduy and gave as his opinion that the case was one of malingstring or sham of the fits. The mouth of the bag must be exactly the size of the egg, which is to be fastened into it with scaling-wax or glue, to form the head of the fish. Having prepared it in this way, paint two eyes on the egg with black paint, and the magic fish is ready to be put into a jar of water. The weight of the sand in the bag must be such that the fish will float on the surface if left to itself, but so that a very light touch will cause it to sink. Cover the jar tightly with a piece of india rubber, or any other water proof flexible substance. When a hand is iaid on the covering the pressure transmitted to the liquid will cause a lattle water to enter the egg, and the fish will dive; the heavier the pressure the more quickly it will plunge. Her eyebrows are straight and delicately penciled, and her abundant coalbiack hair is rolled back from her forehead and coiled on top of her head. Her teeth are white and even, and her lips are full and a ripe red. Her expression is very quiet, but when she smiles her whole face lights up and becomes radiant. Unlike most Japanese her tace is a perfect oval, and in the American dress, which she has adopted, one has to look a second time to assure himself ligence. She rarely walks except in the garden behind the house, and has walked on the street but once in the daytime (then just around the block with a lady), and twice at night for a short distance with her husband. and that is the end of it.

She is exceedingly fond of music and very often entertains her friends by playing on the koto, a Japanese instrument about five feet long, flat and strung something like a guitar, but with thirteen strings. In Japan it was accustomed to ite on the floor, but here to adapt it to the positions we assume it had to be placed on a stand. All its music is in a minor key and Mme. Mutsu is a skillful performer. In playing she ness ivory tips not unlike thimbles in picking it to protect her fingers. She is fond of the opera and, strange to say, likes Wagner's music best of all. She does not care at all for the light, catchy music of comic opera, but her taste turns naturally to the classic.

opera, but her taste turns naturally to the classic.

She has deft, nimble fingers and can tie a knot quicker than you can think. She has also an accomplishment that will be all the rage next winter if she will only consent to teach it to the society girls. This is the cersmony of offering a cup of tea at court enter-tainment. It is done by wiping the cups in a certain way, preparing and pouring the tea, then holding the cup with both hands, also the holding the cup with both hands, also the holding the cup with both hands, also with a slow, gilding movement. It is all so pretty and graceful and novel and so like a scene in a play that if the society girls see it done they will rave over it and then calm down and try it themselves.

seven courses, and later some amusement at home or away from it. Neither the Minister nor Mme. Mutso drink wine, but always have it for company. With every box from home comes Japanese food, but American cooking pleases them very well, especially our roast beef and potatoes.

They have a bright daughter of about 14 or 15 named Saya (pronounced Si-yah), who goes to school at Mrs. Cabell's. She is tailer than her mother, a trifle darker, and has the roslest of rosy cheeks. She speaks English very well, is quick at repartee and full of life and fun. In speaking she is very dramatic, acting what she tells, and talking with eyes and hands and tongue. She has a big mastiff for a pet that is over three feet high and weighs 183 pounds.

Both the Minister and Mme. Mutsu as well as Saya are fond of fun, are witty and observant and have a keen sense of humor. They learn our ways quickly, almost unconsciously, and have keen, analytical minds, and their politeness is part of their lives, not merely a veneering as that of ours so often is.

The Legation is furnished in the American fashion, but there are many beautiful Japaness ware and pictures. In the drawing-room the position of honor is given to a large painting of Fujipama, the highest mountain in Japan. Two of the eight servants that wait on the Minister and 'his wife are Japanese. They have given two large entertainments since they have seven two large entertainments since they have been here, one an evening entertainment celebrating the promugation of their constitution, and the other a large afternoon tea, for invitations to which our society people resorted to every strategy.

SERGT. WEBER A CLOSE PRISONER IN HIS OWN RESIDENCE

ent. Watkins Has Gone Fishing As a Bes

obedience to the orders received from Washington Lieut. Watkins has had to do the Sergeant's work in addition to the onerous duty of drawing the isotherms and isobars on the black board at the Merchants' Exchange. The officers at Washington have a convenient way of forgetting what important and heavy duties they have imposed upon the men in the service, and adding occasionally labor which would alone be sufficient for an able bodied man. Thus it happened that when Sergt. Weber was ordered to arrest himself the duties of his office were imposed upon Lieut. Watkins, who already had as much as he could attend to. Even though he is a Lieutenant he has had to go twice every day to the Merchants' Exchange and prepare the blackboard. Those who are not familiar with this work may not know what it is to put the weather signals on a blackboard, built so high that no one can see the lines on it, but Lieut. Watkins could tes trouble, and as she had never before seen Burck nor his companion she is at a loss to account for his behavior. The revolver was found beside the injured man and is in the hands of the police. Burck is 38 years of age, and lives at 1432 Menard street. He was but recently honorably discharged from service in the United States Army, and was for ten years a faithful regular. The police will take the matter in hand and make a full investigation. such brain work is performed. There are jibbering idlots who are always ready to discredit intellectual occupations and cast aspersions upon the labors of men whose only Lieut. Watkins has to do every day, then pause for a week or two and pe Weber had made his observations and go

THE MANUAL LABOR of making deductions from given propositions. Lieut. Watkins had to take the memorande and walk all the way to the Merchants Exchange. Then he must go to the hall and labor he must carry to the elevated black mounts to a dizzy height, armed with a vulgar populace often wipes from the page of Lieut. Watkins impersonates avenging Fate mperishable if it wasn't, After wiping out the isobars and isotherms which he had drawn the day before he proceeds to draw the isotherms and isobars in colored chalk, and great care must be observed to prevent mixing the colors and painting a southwest wind blue when it should be red. Lieut. Watkins was goided, it is true, by Sergt. Weber's observations, yet he had to be careful and USE HIS LARGEST THOUGHTS to prevent making mistakes, and to his credit, be it said, that he never made a mistake which he did not discover and correct. And in addition to this the Department required Sergt. Weber to arrest himself and Lieut. Watkins to do the Sergeant's work. What the outcome will be is a serious question. After two days of superhuman laber Lieut. Watkins has gone fishing for recreation. A most important question is, what will he catch? If it is maiaria the service will be badly erippled, but it is to be hoped that the community will be spared that dire calamity.

sits at home closely guarded by himself and not permitted by his guard to leave, the premises. The confinement is not so terrible, but when he thinks how Lieut. Westkins is poising himself on a water lity casting his line for speckled bass, and asks permission of his guard to join the Lieutenant in that charming sport, he meets with the gruff rejoinder, "Sergt. Weber, I am a prisoner, and in obedience to my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave my orders I must not permit myself to leave the liveliest interest among the Chicago Baptist lats.

Web and the missing my man and my my man and my my my man and my my orders I must not permit myself to leave my quarters, therefore my request cannot be granted and I cannot permit myself to go fishing." Then the prond Sergeans, realizing the humiliation of his awful position, talls back on a satin-covered ottoman and covers his face with his hands. It is a sight that would arouse the sympathy of anyone but a commissioned officer in the weather service. Sergt. Weber tries to be cheerful, and like Mark Tapley when he removed to a malarlai region he has cause to be. But still there are moments of gloom and despondency, and then he tries to dispel the clouds that gather and solace himself with a little human philosophy by reading aloud to his wife "Vanity Fair." It is a real thing to him, this work of the imagination; he generally leaves te comforted and consoled.

A CURIOUS PUBLIC

was howling to day to know why the Government in Washington was thrown into a state of intense excitement over the coming court-martial. The taxpayers have never been told just why that order to place himself under arrest was sent to Sergt. Weber, and since they demand it they shall know. The office at the signal station, which for years the observer has occupied, is a roomy place, filled with empty book-cases, old maps, a double desk, a leather-covered sofs and other apurtenances which are necessary to scientific labor. Sergt. Weber occupied one side of that desk when he was in charge of that station before, and when he returned to it he resumed his old place. Lieut. Watkins was out on the road and when he returned to it he resumed his old place. Lieut. Watkins was out on the road and when he returned to it he resumed his wrath arose. After a friendly "Howdy do," Lieut. Watkins gave Sergt. Weber to understand that that one was crowded. Sergt. Weber did not feel inclined to make any additions to the room by withdrawing himself, so he sat down and wrote a setter. Lieut. Watkins paced up and down the room, crushing a rose bud out of the figured carnes every time he turned on his heel to retrace his steps. At last Sergt. Weber rarose and handing Lieut. Watkins the letter he said:

"Lieutemant, that is a letter which I have written to the Chief Signal Officer to know whether you can monopolize the office of the observer. I shall sign it and send it to him." Lieut. Watkins read it, and his indignation grew so large that it stuck out all over him and bumped against the walls, the room was so small.

"Sergt. Weber," said Lieut. Watkins, for which physically him used the watlens the said:

grew so large that it stuck out all over him and bumped against the walls, the room was so small.

"Sergt. Weber," said Lieut. Watkins, drawing himself up until he was at least five feet high; "Sergt. Weber, move your things across the way."

Sergt. Weber was surprised, intensely surprised and he stared at the Lieutenant in a faraway. I don's know you are-on-earth manner that increased the Lieutenant's anger.

"Did you hear me speak to you, sir? Do you know who I am? I have given you instructions, sir, I, I, Lieut. Watkins, and you do not seem to hear them, sir!"

Sergt. Weber, in a mechanical way, began to gather his property together and sat down to get something out of the drawers.

"Stand up, sir," screamed Lieut. Watkins.
"I am your superior officer, and by all the stars in the fiag I command you to rise. I call upon the office boy and the elements with which we are both familiar, at least you are, to witness your insubordination to an officer of the great American Republic. Oh, my sense of discipline cannot brook this horrible, horrible disregard. Arise, or by Isla and Osiria, I will cremate you with a burning glance."

Quivering from head to foot, Sergt. Weber rose, while a pint or two of cold perspiration gushed out on his forehead and flooded his intellectual dome.

"I was getting my things ready to move, I lieutenant, I thought."

The inmates of the house, which is kept by Mary Ketchum, and the resident in that immediate vicinity were startled by hearing three shots in rapid succession by hearing three shots in rapid succession. On entering the parlor of the house the police found the frightened inmates gathered around the body of a weil-dressed man, about 55 years old, who was lying on the floor. Blood was flowing from a builet wound in his abdomen. An ambulance was atonce summoned and the injured man was conveyed to the City Dispensary, while the witnesses were taken to the Ststion-house, where their names were taken and they were discharged. At the Dispensary the strainger gave the name of Frank Burck, said he was an Australian, 26 years of age and a cooper. He refused to make any statement concerning the manner in which he was shot and was sent to the City Hospital for treatment, Dr. Steinmetz, who dressed the wound at the Dispensary, found a wound in Burck's abdomen and said he could live but a short time. The women at the house where the shooting took place tell a very plausible story. Birdle Galvin, an inmate, says that Burck, who was a stranger fo her, came to the house early in the evening in company with Frank Call of 810 Julia street. When the gentlemen retired they placed their clothes in the upper berth and went were awakened by the porter in time to get they found them missing and a search of the train failed to bring them to light. The train was rolling rapidly towards Jacksonville and something had to be done. Dr. Gordon with great presence of mind rushed around, woke up male passengers and after many attempts borrowed a pair of pants. Mr. Florida did the same but could find no one who had a they found them missing and a search of the pair of pants to spare. The porter shouted Florida to do but to jump off the train. It was 4 o'clock in the morning and few of the inhabitants of Jacksonville were astir. The dew was heavy on the grass and when Mr. Florida reached home he had a cold which lasted a week. He had lost his suit worth $25, as et of teeth worth $25, an abstract of real estate worth $25, a pair of gloves worth $1.75, a knife worth $1 and $17 in cash. As he never heard from them again he entered suit against the comthem again he entered suit against the company for $94.75 for loss of goods and $100 damages. He charged the company's employes with negligence in not watching his clothes, and the company claimed Florida was guity of contributory negligence in placing his clothes and valuables in a berth he had not paid for and was no more entitled to clothes and valuables in a berth he had not paid for and was no more entitled to recover than he would if at an notel he placed his clothes and property in a room next to his which he had not paid for. Judge Fisher was of the opinion that the porter should have been more careful, and know who got on and off the car. He renders judgment for Mr. Florida for $82.15 and allows him nothing for his lost time or cold.

Passing on a motion for a new trial, this orning, in the case of the Chamberlain Arade Co. against E. Waldmeyer, F. Ramsberger, Christ Pieper and H. Bueking, Judge Fisher defined the meaning of a verdict of the jury and how absolute it was. The Chamberlain Arcade Co., which seems to have got into some difficulty with every contractor who worked on the building, sues the defendants in this case on their contract for $662 damages. In a former trial a jury awarded the company worked on the building, sues the defendants in this case on their contract for $562 damages. In a former trial a jury awarded the company a verdict for the full amount, and a motion for a new trial was filed, on the ground that the verdict was against the law the evidence and the Court's instructions. Judge Fisher in overruling the motion said:

"A careful examination of the instructions given the jury in this case shows that the issues of fact were fairly submitted to them, and while the Court might have reached a different conclusion from what they did, it does not follow that a new trial should be granted. It is the peculiar province of the jury to determine the weight of evidence and decide the issues of fact with the case and the court has no right to interfere with that finding unless it be to clearly wrong as to show that the jury were actuated corruptly or were mislead by the instructions of the court into making a palpably wrong decision. The weight of the evidence, as conceived by the jury, is probably not the same as the court would have determined it, had the case been tried before the court. But this does not warrant the setting aside of the verdict. The motion must be overruled."

be able to control an audience of 12,000 Brooklyn people against their own team Besides, why should he call in a crowd to prevent his own team from securing a game they had practically won. In Louisville Weich was attempting to steal second and the ball got down there before him. The player was standing on the bag and Welch was coming with such impetus that it was absolutely impossible to stop himself quickly and he ran into the player. Well, no doubt he hurt the man considerably, but it was an unavoidable accident. The rabble on the bleaching boards yelled out to kill Welch and I was atraid they might attempt to mob him. If anybody else but Welch did it there would have been no complaint, but he has been given a reputation of doing those things and the crowd unjustly blame him for everything that soes wrong. It is not right to let the bleaching board rabble incite a riot, as their conduct is apt at any time to do."

Harry Stovey, the captain and great batsman of the Athletics, also thinks Welch is more sinned against than sinning. "In Kansas City," he remarked, "Welch went to slide to third and Davis spiked him in the hand, raising a big lump. If Welch had done it to any one the crowd would have wanted to mob him, but they cheered Davis. Everything Welch does is called 'dirty ball,' simply because he has the reputation of doing these things. What other men do and is all right is all wrong when Welch does stem."

'Does there seem to be any prospect of the Gleason matter being settled?" Stovey was asked.

'It is only a question of money, and I guess he and the club will come to terms. Whether he will be played at short I am not in a posi-tion to say, but after we get him I will see what can be done. ""To whatdo you ascribe the poor showing of your team?" what can be done. "
"To whatido you ascribe the poor showing of your team?"
"To hard luck largely. Then our pitchers have not yet got in shape. I think heward, who has been of little use to us, will soon come around all right, however. We have not been hitting either as we did at the opening of the season. The team does not hit fogsther, but in streaks. One day some of the men hit and the others don't and next day things are reversed. At Kansas City we lost because the Cowboys would make these short scratch hits just over the infield, and when our outfielders came in they would knock them far out as a rule, so they had us nonplussed and rattled."
"Who will win the championship?"
"It looks like Brooklyn now, but if the Browins can do as well on their trip as the Browns can do as well on their trip as the Browlyns did, then they ought to win. Since we have been away I have not dared to read a Philadelphia paper, but as we get back at night I guess it will be all right, although we have to show up at 10 o'clock next morning."

The Worst Umpiring Ever Seen.

Bob Ferguson may be a very good umpire, but he failed to display any evidence of the fact in his work in this city. No doubt he has here has been a fatal variance between his intention and decisions. Somehow he has always been assigned to umpire here when the Brooklyn Club plays the Browns, and his work has been uniformly bad. Ferguson's first appearance here was as a League umpire, and at that time he gave most disastrous and outrageous decisions against the Marcons. It was known that he and Duniap, the Marcons' captain, were unfreendly, and charges were made that Ferguson was displaying his malice. When he came here next as an Association umpire his decisions were as unsatisfactory as ever and, strangely enough, his mistakes were almost uniformly against the Browns. His umpiring here last season created the greatest disastisfaction, and in the Browlyn series which closed yesterday his work has been simply execrable. In the first game the Browns got the worst of nearly all close decisions, and most decidedly the worst of the calling of balls and strikes. The home team really had slightly the best of the umpiring in the ascond game, but they did not need it, as they won hands down. In Baturday's and yesterday's games Ferguson's umpiring was most outrageous. Everything was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike for a Brown Stocking batsman, while nothing was a strike to undit a strike of the strike when had a strike of the strike latention and decisions. "How not know. We have heard nothing from him for some time. We made Gleason an offer of what we thought he was wort to has not done so yet."
"It is said that Mr. Pennybacker offered him $5,200 and that Mr. Sharsig then wrote, offering him $2,000, or $100 less?"
"Yes,." remarked Mr. Whitaker, laughing. "Theard something to that effect, but personally know nothing of it. Gleason has our offer and whenever he is ready to come to serms he will be signed. He was very short in his throwing to first last season and that sax his principal defect. But that is the way players run. A man who is good in one respect is weak in another. Now Fennelly makes up Gleason."
"It he signs will he be played regularly at short?"
"That I cannot say."
"It is a shame the way everybody pleks at that player. He is one of the hardest-working base ballists in the country, but everything he does there is a how, no matter how innocent he is of any intentional wrong. The Futurity Stakes.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

NEW YORK, May 20.—There will be racing every day this week at the Brooklyn Jockey Club track, with a good card for each day, and an especially attractive one for Thursday, on which day the first running of the Brook-lyn Futurity will take place. This is by all odds the most valuable 2-year-old stake of the spring, as the club guarantees it to be worth an aggregate of $20,000 or $18,000 to the winner, the second horse receiving $1,500 and the third $500. This stake first closed in April, being supplemented in January last with eighty-four entries, making a total of 208 of which 174 are still eligible, including about all cept Mr. Belmont's Belisarius and Mr. Scott's Banquet. So rich a prize as this will insure a great field of starters, as a number of youngsters that have not yet been seen on the turf have been specially prepared to win the prize the Hudson stakes on Saturday, and for whom the Senator paid $5,000 at the Haggin sale the Senator paid $5,000 at the Haggin sale last June. He has four other horses eligible, including the $40,000 King James, who may possibly make his debut in this race. But opposite to him are the twenty-six entries of the Messrs. Dwyer, the fourteen of J. A. and H. Morris, ten of the Madison stables, six each from the Scott and Withers strings, four from the Castle stable, and any quantitity of entries from other racing strings in which the winner may possibly be found. The work of the young-sters engaged will be very carefully watched during the next few days by every one who is interested either in winning the stakes or backing the probable winner. It will be run under the old scale of weights, 115 pounds for colts and 112 for fillies and geldings, and will be run over the five furiong course.

Stone-Lumsden Bicycle Race.

The first of the series of races between Percy Stone of this city and A. H. Lumsden tock place at the Cheltenham Beach board track last Saturday, and resulted in a victory for the Chicago man. The race had been set for the last event on the programme, but on account of the threatening weather was run off after the second event. Both men appearance, Nord id the District Attorney seem account of the threatening weather was run off after the second event. Both men appearance at the scratch promptly, and upon receiving the word starfed, with Stone in the lead. He maintained the lead for three lags, and had safely made the last turn, which was very dangerous, when Lumsden by a terrific spurt passed him about 200 vards from the tape and won by two lengths. The time was slow, being 3 minutes 4 seconds. The trace was a waiting one throughout, until within about two hundred feet of the tape. Chicago had a parrel of money to place on their favorite, but as they would not give any odds had few sakers; nevertheless nearly 30s in bad condition, particularly the last turn and a rider mounted on a high 54-inch wheel, like Stone's, was at an immense disadvantage in consequence and could not make the turn with anything like the speed of which he is capable. The next race, three miles, will be run at the new race track on the grounds of the St. Louis Gun Club next Saturday, and it is thoughs that it will result in a victory for Stone, as the corners are banked and can be ridden at high speed in safety.

SCHOOL PICKICS.

ome Will Be Held in Vacation, but Man Will Be Abandoned Entirely. The indignation aroused on the South Side by the School Board's action in regard to pic nics is gradually subsiding, and some of those who were very violent in their criticlam at first have come round to the belief clem at first have come round to the belief that after all the abandonment of the custom is to be commended. The disappointment is being swallowed by the children, to whom it was indeed a bitter dose, and the principals and teachers who have been saying nothing for fear of offending either the people in their districts or the board are indulging themselves in secret joy. The truth is, the custom was never popular with the teachers, though on a vote upon the question at a principals' meeting a good many declared themselves in favor of its continuance.

question at a principals' meeting a good many deciared themselves in favor of its continuance.

Speaking about the subject a principal of a South Side school said last evening: "The plenies on special holidays were always a source of dread and annoyance to the teachers. Instead of studying harder on account of a prospective holiday, as some of the advocates of picnics argued the children would, I have found it to be the case that their minds were off the books and they were perpetually wandering in fancy to green fields. Then when the day of the picnic finally arrived the minds of the teachers were on the rack all day for fear of something happening which would mark the occasion as a sad instead of a joyous one. And how hard it was for many days after the picnic to keep the minds of little one's from reverting back to; the pleasure of the day spent in the woods. The argument that the additional day was an incentive to study is all bosh. My experience, and I think that of most or all of the principals and teachers, has been to the contrary. A number of the schools are now making arraugements to hold their picnics during vacation. The Clerx, Ames, Webster, O'Fallon, Carr Lane, Everett, Irving, Blair, Blair Branch and Jackson schools, which had made dates at the Fair Grounds under the supposition that the precedent of giving a holiday for a picnic was to be adhered to, and afterwards in view of the School Board's action canceled the se dates, have not applied for dates during the vacation montas and hence it is concluded that other proposed pinnies have been abandoned. The Pestalozzi will give a picnie in vacation.

The School Board offices close now at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoons.

The Madison Kindergarten will have its May festival Wednesday.

ut the Defendant Did Not Pot in an Appearance—To-Morrow His Attorney Will Ask That the Indictment for Fraudulently Securing Naturalisation Papers Be Quashed on a Technicality.

HIS morning the case of Delegate Julius Leh-mann was called in the Court. Lehmann was under bond of $2,500 to appear this morning but he was not or hand. District Attorney Reynolds rose while the court waited for Lehmann and an-nounced that he had a note from Mr. D. P. Dyer, Lehmann's attorney, who stated that he was engaged in the Circuit Court and asked that the case be ssed down until 2 o'clock. Mr. Reynolds then suggested that the de-fendant would enter demurrer and that the court might not be prepared to hear the arguments at such a late hour. On the District Attorney's suggestion the case was continued until to-morrow morning. Lehmann did not answer when his case was called. It may not be his intention to trifle with the court, but his conduct needs explanation. When the complaint was pending before Commissioner Crawford it was continued five times. On none of these occasions except the first, when Lehman was in the custody of an officer, did he put in an appearance. The conditions of the bond were declared violated at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Commissioner simply has power to de-clare the conditions of the bond violated. A orfeiture of the bond itself can only be delared by the court. About ten minutes before the Commissioner could report the VIOLATION OF THE CONDITIONS the next morning Lehmann walked into the court-room with the very bondsman who had been his security on the bond which he vioanxious at that time to arraign Lehmann and Lehmann was just as anxious not to put him-self in the position of defendant before the Commissioner. Both Lehmann and his bonds-man, Pohlman, seemed to be posted as to the technicality by which they could defeat the plans of the prosecution, and then save them-wards of the city.

Members of the present Grand-jury, of both political parties, are discussing the need of special counsel to prosecute the cases. It is not improbable that they, in conjunction with some of the gentlemen prominent in the Citizens' combined ticket movement of last November will set on foot a movement to submit the matter to the Attorney-General and request the appointment of a special attorney and an appropriation to defray the expenses of collecting the necessary evidence. The adjournment of the Grandjury until the loth inst. was taken for the purpose of enabling the new attorney to become familiar with the evidence in the case.

become familiar with the evidence in the case.

This morning Christopher Zelm, charged with having falsely registered on October 16, 1888, from 3422 South Broadway, in the Eleventh Ward and Tenth Congressional District, when not entitled to registration, was arraigned. Re did not understand English, and Judge Thayer gave him further time before pleading. The court also appointed an attorney for the defendant. The indictment charges that the defendant secured registration in a precinct in which he was not entitled to vote. The evidence does not indicate that the case is connected with any sostem of frauds. It will probably turn out to be only a technical violation.

Lehmann's Appearance and Demurrer. Delegate Julius Lehman called at the Federal Bullding to-day and this afternoon his atto ney, Mr. D. P. Dyer, filed his demurrer to the charge against him. The ruling on this will affect all the cases. The principal point raised in the demurrer is that the Court of Criminal Correction cannot issue naturaliza-tion papers, as it is not such a tribunal as is defined by the Federal statute.

The rain fell fitfully all night, being neaviest between 2 and 4 o'clock this morn ing. Between 10 and 12 o'clock the lightning was something dreadful, and several buildings in various portions of the city were damaged. Near 11 o'clock there were ter vivid flashes at less than baif-minute intervals; the peals of thunder were so close to-gether the sound seemed to be continuous and created great alarm in the city. was no loss of life, and the total damage to property within the limits amounted to less than $400.

As reported by the signal service the total rainfall for the twenty four hours of yesterday was 55-100 of an inch. That was the amount that fell upon the Custom-house, where the observation station is located. A measurement in the southwestern suburbs, where the heavy rain of the afternoon fell, would probably show the rainfall to have been a full inch or more.

The rain was general throughout Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, the lake region and extended east to the coast. The heaviest rainfall reported for yesterday was at Washington 1 38-100 inches. Wilmington, N. C., reported 1 34-100 inches. Wilmington, N. C., reported 1 34-100 inches.

During the storm in the fore part of last night lightning struck a tall, solidly built chimney in the center of Andrew D. Murray's residence, 6741 Plateau avenue (Benton). The current wrecked the chimney, passing down through the chimney to the cellar. The family was asleep at the time, but was awakened by the terrible report accompanying the fish. For a time they thought the house was on fire as there was a smell of smoke in all the rooms, but investigation failed to disclose a blaze anywhere. No damage was done the building beyond the wrecking of the chimney. Last summer a fine old oak which stood about 250 fest west of the Murray residence was struck by lightning and killed. The house is on the top of a high hill, almost the highest point in the city.

Lightning iast might set fire to the telephone box in the Chronicle office on Sixth street. The fire was extinguished by No. 4 truck company on a still alarm.

The May Grand-jury returned a partial re port this morning and the jurers were dis-missed until June 17, at which time they will again meet and continue their work. A ten days session had been held, fifty-five cases had been examined and of these true bills had been found in forty-seven cases with six cases ignored and two cases continued on account of absence of witnesses. The report said: "We have visited the jai and found it apparently in a satisfactory of dition throughout. We also visited Fores Park, the Woman's Hospital, Insane Asylum Poor-house, House of Refuge and Work house. The absence of seats in Forest Park i and we recommend thatsome thing be do to meet the demand in time its appreciation this season. We do more than has been done by previous Grand-juries in calling attention to the over crowded condition of the Woman's Hospital Poor-house and Insane Asvium. The Poor house proper is used wholly for the overflo from the Insane Asylum and the pauper sub are crowded into an annex, which is inadequate in all its appointments for their proper care. The Insane Asylum, which was built to accommodate 200 patients, has now care. The Insane Asylum, which was built to accommodate 200 patients, has now more than five hundred inmates. These institutions are all conducted in a very efficient manner under the conditions mentioned. It is more than a reproach to our City Government that with the repeated reminders in this direction and in the face of which a million-dollar City Hall is proposed. We emphatically suggest that if this appropriation assumes shape that these institutions take precedence. Instead of the purchase of a land site for a new City Hall we suggest that the Court-house property be utilized by adding sufficients for murder were rendered in the cases of John Lawton, the policeman who on December 21, 1888, shot one Thomas Clark for dumping ashes on a vacant lot off Easton avenue, and in the case of Henry Henson, who on February 4, 1889, shot his wife, Ida Henson. Other Indictments were: Forrest Recolifie, grand larceny; Edward Doyle, burglary and larceny; John Lehr and Edward Dwyer, same; James Fahey, John Whalen and James McCormack, same; Thomas Walker, same; Harry Crosby, alias James Dickson, fraud; John Greathouse, alias Brown, grand larceny; Frank Wells and Joseph Turner, same; James Tucker and John Skinner, arson (fourth degree); James Johnston and John Skinner, same; Thomas Mulligan and William Brady, burglary and larceny; Herman Overbeck, grand larceny; burglary and larceny; Mohlerbrok, on Fred Schleuter; Nick Huber, on Frances Eberhart; James Stapleton, on Mike Ryan.

The May Festival in the Church Yesterday a May festivals were given in all the Method ist Episcopal Churchesi yesterday. The festival at Centenary was the greatest social event of the year in that church. The large edifice was crowded to the doors with chilflowers and plants. The programme was a long and elaborate one. The songs and hymns were beautifully rendered. A feature of the festival was the baptism of sixteen babes in arms and the admission of sixteen adults. Dr. Matthews made a characteristic address from the text: "And the atreets of the city shall be full of boys and solve the other statements, two two-story prick dwelling. Mary Peterson, Blair and Angierods, two-story brick tenents. Hartman, Arsenal and McNair avenue, 2-story brick dwelling. Settlements and the streets of the city shall be full of boys and statements. The programme was a large rendered to the city shall be full of the city shall be full of boys and statements. The programme was a large rendered to the city shall be full of the city shall be full of boys and statements. The programme was a large rendered to the city shall be compared to the city shall be city dren. The pulpit and altar were covered with are streets or the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof." Zachariah vil., 5. After the sermon the various classes made their offerings. The service was concluded by the marriage of Mr. Edward Butler and Miss Jennie Hogan. Altogether the day was one long to be remembered by the members of the congregation.

at the St. Dominick Convent at South Orange avenue and South Tenth street, Newark, N. J., last Thursday norning. She has been a postulant in the convent for several months. A number of her St. Louis relatives and friends were present. The ceremony was performed by Archbishop Eyan, assisted by Rev. Father Leary and other priests. The Archbishop delivered a forcible exhortation to the young lady, reminding her of all that she was leaving behind for the gloomy walls of the convent where there were none but spiritual joys, but she, at the conclusion of his remarks, announced in a firm voice her desire to receive the veil. She was then led from the chapel in her bridal garments and reappeared in the simple black habit of the order. At the end of a year if she is confirmed in her intention of leading a religious life she will take the final yows.

Rev. John Snyder's sympathetic nature has ing man he secured him a position as so worked hard, secured a number of subscribers and then decamped with the money collected. Dr. Snyder informed his congregation yester-day that he would refund the money to those

The Mayor and Party Return From Chicago received at the nands of the Chicago officials He said this morning: "We had a very pleas-ant trip and picked up a good deal of information. Mayor Cregier received us very handsomely when I was introduced to him as handsomely when I was introduced to him as the Mayor of St. Louis. He thought for a moment and then remarked, 'St. Louis, St.

Louis, I think I have heard of that place before. It is a little town down here in Missouri, isn't it?' I told him yes, but that in most enlightened cities St.
Louis and her doings were the main tople of a conversation. After we had joked a little while over the respective merits of our towns we went on a tour of the city. We went over the main business portion of the city and were much impressed with the improvement in the appearance of the city where the telegraph poles are down and the wires under ground, no poles and wires to be seen at all except where the city has them for electric lighting. We examined the four existing systems of carrying the wires in conduits and paid particular attention to the Dorsett system. We took a trip on the fire boat out to the crib, which is the lake end off the waterworks. The boat is a very complete contrivance and filis the demands to a dot.

'We looked over their electric lighting system which is there under the control of the

The Denver Board of Public Works will not be legally in existence until the let of June, yet the members are all appointed and are at work preparing for the duties which will develve upon them. They visited the Mayor's office this afternoon and were introduced to the Commissioners, who have made arrangements to supply them with all the facts and figures they may desire. This afternoon they will spend in the company of Street Commissioner Barnett and make a thorough investigation of the entire system, including the cost, practicability and duration of the various kinds of street paving. They talked sewerage, cable cars, conduits and electric lighting with the various commissioners for some time and left the Mayor's office to seek other sources of information. They will extend their visits to other Western cities.

Van Etten at Toledo, on the charge of swindling Mrs. Julia Homer, la widow re of swindling Mrs. Julia Homer, a widow residing here, out of $4,000. Van Etten came here last July, representing he was a Methodist Minister, and by his pleasing address secured boarding with Mrs. Homer. The latter was having trouble with a tenant, and at the suggestion of Van Etten deeded him the property, valued at $5,000, he claiming he would oust the parties and give back her property. Van Etten no sooner secured the deed than he mortgaged the property for $4,000 and skipped. An officer left to-day for Toledo.

Albany, Ore. THE OREGON PACIFIC RAILBOAD CO. organised for the purpose of providing the State of regon with an urgently needed means of communi-ation with other States and foreign countries by seans of a railroad from YAQUINA RAY on the Pacific Ocean, running through the central portion of the State to the eastern boundary thereof, a distance of about six hundred miles, where connection will be made with the railroad line already built to that point, as well as with those under construction and Projected.

YAQUINA BAY, from its commanding geographical position and the scarcity of ports on the Oregon seaboard, is destined to be the future great seaport of Oregon, for, among others, the following reasons:
First—It is the ONLY PORT IN OREGON ON THE SEA connected by a rallway with the great agricultural districts in the State.

Second—THE OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD

an agricultural country of unsurpassed fertility, producing millions of bushels of grain annually and large yields of other agricultural products, and supporting herds of cattle, sheep and horses. The railroad also passes through a country rich in deposits of coal, fron, gold and silver, and, for fifty miles, through one of the finest bodies of timber anywhere in the world. The timber district has been preserved to this time by the absence of needed railroad facilities.

The superiority of these lots

Fifth-The whole business of Central, Southern and Eastern Oregon will be carried by the OREGON PA-CIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY to Yaquina, and dis-tributed from that port, in about one-half the time consumed, and at about one-half the cost for trans-

With adequate ocean shipping facilities to handle the traffic there would now be available sufficient business to meet all the fixed charges.

From the heart of the William: to Valley to the sea

the distance by the Oregon Pacific Railroad is but 72 miles, while the shortest line by other roads is 230 miles in length, which will enable the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD to hold the business against accompanies. As distance by the Oregon Pacific Railroad is but 72 miles in length, which will enable the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD to hold the business against accompanies. CIFIC RALLROAD to hold the business against com-petition. As distance and time add to the cost of transportation it is simply an impossibility for com-peting lines to handle the business at the same rate done by the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY. Central Eastern Oregon being a tree-less country will draw its timber and coal supply from along the line of the OREGON PACIFIC RAIL-ROAD in the Cascade Mountains. The supplies o timber and coal will be taken East on the trains going to the great fertile plains of that district for agri-cultural products to be delivered at the port of Yaquina, thus securing traffic each way. This gives, without interference, the OREGON PACIFIC RAIL-ROAD the remunerative local business, and will en-able it to do through business at prices that will com-mand its full share of that traffic,

THE OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY will locate and own the towns along the line of its road, and reap the benefits resulting therefrom. The principal lands through which the Company's line runs and is located are owned by the Company, and amount to over nine hundred and fifty thousand scres. More than three-quarters of these lands are open rolling plains and immediately available for the Company, and among them is the return to the Company, by the State, of all taxes levied and collected until 1900, on the lands and other properties

The Company has in operation 136 miles of continuous road, at the end of which it enters the timber tract above referred to; 30 miles are in the hands of the Construction Department, and 40 miles of road-bed through the Matheur Valley are ready for rails. The whole line will be completed by the autumn of 1890. Steel rails for completion of the road, together with fastenings, have been purchased.

The five millions of bonds now offered are the remainder ef the total issue of fifteen millions provided for in the sasetgage, and by an arrangement between the Rairou. Company and Masare. Barker Brothers & Co. of Philadelphia the proceeds of these bonds that work of construction progresses.

Raltimore advices are that samples of wheat from different sections of Maryland and Virginal indicate that the wheat crop of those States will be ready for harvest by the middle of June.

Referring to the statements that have lately been made regarding wheat grown from frosted seed, the Chicago Tribune says: "A. B. Hitchcock remarks that there need be little fear about the crop from seed that was rested last year. He notices that crop, of wheat always takes care of its seed. This was notificated by the case in 1877, when the wheat was badly damaged by general rains in harvest time, and necessarily only poor seed was used for the crop of 1855. But that promised well till hurt by hight late in the season, and that second do to poor seed gave a good the theory that wheat always takes care for the next crop in the matter of seed."

AMONG THE BROKERS.

The West Granite Sale - Stocks Sold and The sales of stock were fair in amount this orning and prices generally advanced. M. I. was the favorite stock on the board M. I. was the favorite stock on the board and rose slightly in price, under heavy sales. The market opened 65½ bid, but no stock sold below 67½ at which 200 shares changed hands. The price then rose to 70, but after 500 shares had been disposed of, the property was offered at this figure in large blocks. This had the effect of depressing the price, bidding fulling to 65%. At this quotation the largest sales of the day are made, 1,000 shares changing hands.

A letter was received from Supt. Moore this morning, in which he says that 30 cargoes, amounting to about 1½ tons, had been raised, and five samples selected from which assays would be made. The general tenor of the report is conformatory of the news of the strike made in the San Juan vein last week. Mr. Moore says that another vein has been cut about 200 feet north of the San Juan, which from present indications will prove as rich as that deposit, Frisco was rather on the down grade but soldffreely. The market opened at 43%, but after 200 shares had been sold dropped to 41%. At this figure 300 shares were disposed of and the stock fell to 40, at which 800 shares changed hands, the market closing at 38% bid, 40 asked.

This decline caused not a little surprise, in view of the fact that the news received from the mine was very favorable. Supt. Smith telegraphed: "We ship carload of ten tons to day," under date of May 19. Vice President Saunders considers this news to be the most favorable received for some time past.

A letter was received for some time past.

A letter was received from the Pat Murphy saying that three car-loads of very high grade ore had been raised, and two and a half car-loads, composed of lead and zinc cres of low grade, but rich enough to ship. ICE CREAM, 50. JUDGE LAMBERT TREE The Ex-United States Minister to Russi

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Judge Lambert Tree of Chicago, the ex-Minister to Russia, arrived yeaterday by the Cunard steamer Etruria and was seen in the evening by the Post-Dis-PATCH correspondent at the Clarendon Hotel. The St. Petersburg winter has not had a disagreeable effect upon Mr. Tree. He said that that he was no more inconvenienced by the cold of the Russian cap-ital than by that of our own Northwest. He left St. Petersburg in the action part of February and, accompanied by Mrs. Tree, went to Nice. They remained us Nice some time, going from there to Brussels and London before sailing for home. Mr. Tree had, of course, not heard until his arrival of the death of Allen Thorndyke Rice. He spoke of him in the highest terms and expressed much regret that the country was not to be represented by him. In regard to his official relations with the Russian authorities Minister Tree said:

"They were agreesable in the avernme and itality rivals our own famed Southern hos pitality."

Mr. Tree knew the late Count De Metrius Tolstei, Minister of the Interior and brother of the novelut. He spoke of him as an austere man, and one of the most unpopular in Russia. Judge Tree will report in Washington in a few days, and will make a short stay there. He will than return to his home in Chicago. During him absence abroad his handsome house at Cass and Ontario streets has been occupied by Cen. Alexander McClurg.

MORAL AND EDUCATIONAL QUESTIONS

CINCINATI, O., May 20.—The Fifth Provincial Council of Cincinnati (Roman Catholic), which includes the States of Tennesee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, has begun its sessions, which will continue for perhaps a week. It is called to consider moral and educational questions pertaining to the church, but has no jurisdiction over doctrines and its decrees are void until approved by the Pope. The religious ceremonies attendant upon the opening of the Council were very imposing. The officers of the Council under the Archbishop are: Fromoties
